Buzzfeed Unsolved is an American docu-series on YouTube hosted by Ryan Bergara and Shane Madej. They discuss unsolved crimes, supernatural happenings, conspiracy theories and often visit supposedly haunted places. Although the show focuses on scary topics, humor arises in the banter between Bergara, who believes in the supernatural, and Madej, who remains skeptical. The first episode was posted on the BuzzFeedBlue channel in 2016, and a separate channel for the show was created in July 2018.

"My best friend Hannah and I watch it together. It's mysterious, it's interesting and it's different from what you usually see on YouTube."

Shane Dawson is a 30-year-old American YouTuber. One of the first YouTube creators to achieve fame on the site, he is the 72nd most-subscribed channel. He began his career with sketch comedy videos and now creates popular conspiracy theory videos. Recently, he has been making docuseries focusing on the personal lives of fellow YouTubers such as Jeffree Star and Jake Paul.

"Not only does he incorporate very heavy subject matter into his videos, he brings awareness of certain things (like depression, anxiety, suicide, mental health, etc.) that many people struggle with in their day-to-day lives that we may not know about."
